A practical checklist from Scott Martin, CFP®

LEGACY PROTECTION CHECKLIST

Are your estate documents, beneficiaries, and legacy wishes current?

This checklist helps you review whether your estate plan, beneficiaries, and legacy strategy still reflect your current life and wishes.

Estate Documents

- I have an updated will.
- I have a durable power of attorney.
- I have a HIPAA authorization.
- I have reviewed whether a trust is appropriate.
- I have a healthcare directive.
- My documents have been reviewed within the last three years.

Beneficiaries

- IRA beneficiaries are current.
- Life insurance beneficiaries are current.
- Bank and brokerage account beneficiaries have been reviewed.
- 401(k) or retirement plan beneficiaries are current.
- Annuity beneficiaries are current.
- Contingent beneficiaries are named.

People & Roles

- I have named an executor or personal representative.
- I have named healthcare decision-makers.
- My chosen people are still willing and able to serve.
- I have named trustees where needed.
- I have discussed key wishes with appropriate people.
- Important documents are accessible if needed.

WHAT YOUR ANSWERS MAY MEAN

A checklist does not replace planning. It helps reveal where your plan may need attention.

Legacy planning is not only about money. It is about control, clarity, family protection, and making sure your wishes are honored. Unchecked items may indicate that your plan no longer reflects your current life.

COMMON BLIND SPOTS

- Outdated beneficiaries.
- Estate documents that no longer match your wishes.
- Not coordinating account titling with the estate plan.
- Forgetting healthcare and incapacity planning.
- Assuming loved ones know what to do.

NEXT STEP

If several items were unchecked, the issue may not be effort - it may be that your financial plan has not been fully recalibrated around your current life stage, goals, risks, and future income needs.
